We are requested to state that in the absence of the Pastor, Rev. W. H. Strickland will preach at Belton on next Saturday at the usual hour, and the Rev. H. B. Fant on Lord's Day.

Messrs. Blockley, Brown & Co. have bought four thousand bales of cotton this season. Their business is increasing every week, and they are now receiving a mammoth stock of goods.

The fact that there is now on deposit in the Anderson National Bank nearly one hundred and forty thousand dollars is sufficient evidence that there is an abundance of money in this County.

Miss Lizie Williams, of the Ladies' Store, has gone to New York for spring goods. She will lay in a large stock, and in its selection will make the object of pleasing her many customers a special one.

The stockholders of the Anderson Farmers' and Mechanics' Association should remember the meeting in the Court House on next Saturday. Officers will be elected and other important business transacted.

Messrs. J. B. Clark & Sons will receive in a few days a large and complete stock of gents' furnishings, goods, and a large number of the latest improved Singer Sewing Machines. Mr. E. L. Clark is now a member of the firm. Their advertisement stating particulars will appear next week.

We would call attention to the advertisement of Mr. D. B. McCullough, which appears in another column. Persons wishing to purchase fertilizers will do well to call on him for terms, &c. The brands which he is selling have been thoroughly tested, and have given universal satisfaction in this County.

Upon enquiry we learn that there is not a vacant dwelling house in Anderson, and that several residences are now in process of erection. Every store room in the town is occupied, and two new ones are being finished on the public square, and are expected in advance of completion. The growth of Anderson is steady and substantial.

Mrs. Mary Copeland departed this life on the 21st of February last, after an illness of near eighteen months from asthma. She had reached an advanced age, being at the time of her death in her seventy-ninth year. In 1842 she united with the Baptist Church at Dorchester in this County, and remained a faithful and consistent member up to her death.

Married, in the Baptist Church, at Anderson, on Thursday afternoon, 29th of February, at 4 o'clock, by Rev. Wm. Henry Strickland, Mr. W. D. Brown and Miss Lou Fant, daughter of O. H. P. Fant, Esq. The couple left that evening on the 7.20 train for Florida, and will be gone a week or two.

Monday was a busy, bustling day in Anderson. The square was jammed with wagons, and everybody seemed to be busy and in a hurry. The horse-wrappers were in full force, and were as anxious to dispose of their critters as the merchants were of their goods. There was a considerable amount of drunkenness, though hardly as much as is usual on such big days.

Capt. Willis Robins died at his residence in Remleton on Thursday, the 29th day of February last, after a short illness from heart disease. Capt. Robins was a native of Kentucky, but removed to this State in 1832, settling in old Pendleton District, and soon became a popular, influential and prominent citizen, so that in 1838 he was elected a member of the South Carolina Legislature from that District, of which the present County of Anderson formed a part. He was at the time of his death seventy-eight years of age, and although he had been quite feeble and infirm for several years, he was not seriously ill until, as stated above, a short time before the fatal hour of his departure. He was an excellent old gentleman, and leaves many friends who sympathize with his wife and children in their bereavement.

At the regular meeting of the County Commissioners on Tuesday a resolution was passed instructing Mr. Bailey, the Chairman of the Board, to purchase and have erected as early as possible a wire fence around the Court House. The fence will run from the columns at each end of the building in a semi-circle and will enclose the public pumps. The Town Council propose, as soon as the fence is erected, furnishing the enclosure with an evergreen turf, and furnishing it with seats. This will be quite an improvement to the square, and we hope the details will be carried out as at present intended.

The election for subscription to the Atlantic and French Broad Valley Railroad in Willamston and Belton townships in this County are over, and resulted in favor of subscription in each township. We have not received the full poll but understand over two hundred votes were cast in each township, and that the subscription was carried in Willamston township by thirty-seven majority and in Belton township by twenty-seven. The election in Brushy Creek township will take place on next Saturday.

We publish this week the proceedings of the Associate Grange which met in Anderson near two months ago. Hereafter, however we must insist that such proceedings shall be sent us promptly or we must decline them. If they are not of sufficient importance to be published at once they are not of enough interest to the public to justify publishing after so long a time. We must have them while they are news, or we do not want them; and while we are on this subject we would say that the same rule will be rigidly applied in the future to all communications from any source.

The tournament at Farmer's Store, in the Park, on Saturday, the 21st ultimo, was a pleasant occasion, and was attended by a large crowd. Twelve knights participated in the tournament, which resulted in favor of the following: 1st, John G. Cox; 2nd, Charles Stewart; 3rd, W. P. Snelgrove; 4th, R. G. Todd. Mr. Cox received a purse of $5, while the others crowned respectively the following ladies that night at the ball: Queen of Love and Beauty, Miss Ada Browne; 1st Maid of Honor, Miss Annie Williams; 2nd Maid of Honor, Miss Emma Snelgrove. The ball was largely attended and much enjoyed by all present.

The difficulty in deciding the question as to what is the dark of the moon, propounded by our Hon. Pat. Cor. correspondent, arises probably from using the expression with reference to two different ideas. If the term is the time when the moon is dark to the earth, then it is that period of the lunar month when the moon cannot be seen at any hour of the night; but if used in the sense in which it is frequently employed, in an inaccurate way, to signify the decrease of the moon, then it is that period which follows the full moon, and lasts to the new moon which succeeds it.

The regular meeting of the Executive Committee of Pomona Grange was held in Watson's store on last Monday at the usual time. No special business matter came before it. Several questions of general interest were considered and discussed, without arriving at any particular conclusion. The guano question came in for its part of attention, but which, owing to the late day on which the propositions were submitted, was necessarily postponed to the present. The Executive Committee are strongly inclined to the opinion that if farmers would direct their thoughts more earnestly to the consideration of the indispensable constituents of profitable fertilizers, by selecting the most desirable chemicals and purchasing them in bulk at wholesale rates, and manipulating or composting them on the farm, at least one-third of the expense would be saved to the farmer, and a much better and more reliable fertilizer secured for application to crops. This much successfully effected would enable the farmer to use one-third more of guano without additional cost.

The Greeley Institute. The fund for repairing the Greeley Institute for the education of the colored people is steadily increasing, and the work upon the building is progressing in a correspondingly satisfactory manner. The colored citizens of the town and vicinity are raising the necessary funds among themselves without asking aid from the white people. For their enterprise and success they deserve the congratulation and encouragement of all our citizens. We hope they will all take an interest in the undertaking and subscribe the balance necessary to complete the work. It will be a credit to those who accomplish the purpose in view, and will give a stimulus to the work of education among the children, which will be gratifying to every one. The colored people of various sections of the South are moving in the direction of a higher education, and we are particularly pleased to see so much interest manifested by the colored citizens of our own community.

In doing this work themselves they show energy and public spirit which is admirable, and we are satisfied that as soon as the work undertaken by them is completed they will easily obtain the assistance which may be necessary to render their school not only efficient but an inestimable blessing to themselves and their country. There is one thing of which our colored friends may rest assured, and that is that every cent they put into education will be well spent, and will render many fold in the future. It will improve and elevate their race and give to them better position and greater prosperity.

Home. Path. Our farmers are busy preparing their lands for the coming crop, and a few more weeks of pleasant weather will find them ready for planting. A large quantity of guano is being sold here, and we fear too much cotton will be planted in our section, but a large area has been sown in small grain, which, with proper seasons, will do much towards supplying the deficit of a small corn crop. One great reason why our farmers plant more cotton and less corn is, that the lands here are much better adapted to cotton. This is beyond doubt the first lands in our country for cotton. One by one our young men are getting married, the last of whom was Mr. Sanford Gant, who was joined in wedlock on last Saturday at 4 o'clock, by Rev. Wm. Henry Strickland. The young man is a native of Anderson, and is a bachelor's hall where the old bachelor formerly sat all forlorn. A negro girl from near your town was here a short time since who attracted considerable attention. She is four years old, weighs seventy-two pounds, is thirty-nine inches tall, and measures thirty-four inches around the chest. She is County raised. Can any other county beat us? One of your subscribers wants you to tell him when is the dark of the moon. He heard three gentlemen arguing about it, and they all differed, and he wants you to decide. It is rumored on our streets that our paper (the Intelligencer) will suspend after this week—cause the rise in paper. The editor of the Turpido was mistaken about Dr. Huggins riding a velocipede with a saw. It is a riding-rear-back-and-come-again cross-cut saw with a velocipede saddle on it. Miss Norris, of Savannah journal, is visiting friends at this place, and judging from the attention she receives is very popular with our young men. We hope some of them will persuade her to make her home here. P. M.

Townville. Mr. Thompson, formerly of Greenville County, has erected a large and elegant mansion on his place near B. v. There can be no doubt that the wheat has been greatly damaged by the fly, and, although the insect has not disappeared, it is thought the crop is coming out somewhat. The health of the community is unusually good, there being no cases of serious illness in the township. The citizens in and around town have a mania for buggies, quite a number of those vehicles having been purchased recently, and the contents of the same. There is a scarcity of provender in the parts. Shucks are in demand at $3.00 a two-horse load, and fodder commands $2.00 a hundred bundles. Recent improvements in Townville the erection of a buggy and wagon manufactory and an additional shoe shop is noted. The passage of the bill to facilitate the completion of the Blue Ridge Railroad causes the most favorable comment in this part of the country. D.

Mr. Editor: Will you allow us a little space in your columns to make mention of a very pleasing, delightful and gratifying occasion which took place on last Friday evening at Leeland Academy, which is in the charge of Mr. W. H. Frierson, who is a young man of charming modesty and manners, and of promising usefulness to the educational interest of the youth of our community. He is managing his school upon the improved and advanced method of imparting instruction. We endorse him as a scholar, efficient teacher and Christian gentleman, and we never speak thus of any one unless it is based upon true merit. But, however, we were highly pleased with the occasion—first, because it was unexpected and untalked of; secondly, because it was gotten up in such good style and refined taste; thirdly, because it was gotten up especially to contribute to the enjoyment and encouragement of the children; fourthly, because the program was so well planned, and lastly, we were laughing all the time because everybody else was laughing and vying with each other in contributing to the merriment of the pound party. At an early hour we arrived at the Academy, accompanied by some of the lively, cheerful faces and voices, where we found every preparation necessary to make the occasion interesting and attractive and complete. Indeed, we were surprised. We were not looking for such a big thing. But when we saw around the long table in the hall, the committee of arrangements, consisting of Mrs. D. S. Watson, Mrs. John A. Reeves, Mrs. M. A. Snipes, Mrs. John Hall, Mrs. P. A. Masters and Mrs. Williams, receiving and arranging those pounds, our astonishment was easily accounted for. Everything was arranged in such a way as to impress the minds of the children that this was indeed especially for them. At 7.30 o'clock the school was collected in the Academy, together with a few guests, consisting of young ladies and gentlemen. Mr. Frierson, who announced the pound supper ready, and that as it was leap year the little girls and young ladies would select their partners and gallant them to the table in the yard, where they would be waited on by the committee, and the instructions were carried out with precision and much grace. The crowd formed a large circle around the table, which was well mounted and brightly illuminated. One must stretch his imagination to realize the beauty and charms of such a festivity. Everything during the eating was orderly and mannerly conducted. It had to be so, for every pupil was under the influence and control of the much-beloved teacher.

Immediately after eating they returned into the house, where their happy spirits were elevated to the brightest glow of mirth. But there was no dancing, "not a bit of it." In fact, some of the little lovely ones asked us to assist in keeping it quiet. But just at this time, when all was noise and laughter, Mr. P. A. Masters and his two sons, Joe and Reuben, and Mr. J. H. Masters, filled the region around with instrumental music, such as many of the little ones never heard before. It was the first time we ever saw our friend, P. A. M., in his true element. We had this thought: that there is much hidden musical talent in the world that nothing but a desire to please and encourage children can develop. Those children will never forget that music, will never forget that pound party at Leeland Academy, and will never forget the happy moments of that evening. We hailed and welcomed it as a favorable omen of the future success of the school. We participated in it as a demonstration of confidence and appreciation of the teacher, as well as to encourage the children and to give variety to their monotonous school days. At 10 o'clock we adjourned by order of the committee.

Atlantic and French Broad Valley Railroad. B. v. S. C. Feb. 23, 1880.

Mr. Editor: I desire to give you through your paper the following remarks which I think we should all vote a tax on the Atlantic and French Broad Valley Railroad, formerly known as the Belton, Willamston and Easley Railroad.

1. Every railroad which has ever been built across the Blue Ridge running into the great valley of the Mississippi, as this does, is a paying road with a premium on its stock. The least premium is 50 per cent. on its stock, the least dollar is worth one dollar and fifty cents, so that likely we will not lose our taxes, as each taxpayer according to our charter is a stockholder in the road to the amount he pays, and I feel sure that after the road is built there will be a premium on its stock.

2. The competition caused by building this road, will reduce the freights on our coal, iron, bacon, flour, guano, &c. I think, enough to double the small tax. We are not asked to vote every year, and this reduction will last through all time, but our tax can not be for more than four years, as the law is plain on that as language can make it.

3. I feel quite sure that by building this road all our rail estate will be raised in value in five years more than the amount of the tax we pay.

4. All the school taxes resulting from this road are bound to be kept in the township through which it runs and applied to the free schools, which, I hope, will enable us to run our free schools for ten months in the year. Certainly this is a very important item to all the poor children in our townships, and this tax will lead to educate future generations.

It is always sad to record a death, and the sadness is increased when the good, the young, the strong die, just when a new career of usefulness in the Church and of comfort and helpfulness amid their homes and loved ones seems opening before them. The tender sympathy of the whole Church will go out to the Rev. Dr. John B. Adger and family, at the news of the death of his only son, John H. Adger, who died January 3, from wounds received by being thrown from his buggy a few weeks ago. Both his legs were broken by the fall; and though the hopes of his recovery were entertained at first, unfavorable symptoms soon appeared, and the skill of physicians and the tender watchful care of friends could not save him. The time to depart had come, for the Lord had called him to himself.

During the period between his hurt and his death, days of physical suffering to himself, and of hope and fear, suspense and agony to his friends—he was calm and patient, saying, after asking his physician if there was any hope of life: "If I am to die, I am ready to go." He was ready, because his trust was in that Saviour who said, "Be ye therefore ready." It was natural for him to be ready to meet Jesus in death, for his life had been with him.

Mr. Adger was not only known as the son of Rev. Dr. Adger, whom we all honor, but was personally known and esteemed, especially in Mississippi and South Carolina. He had a thorough training at the University of Virginia, he went through a course of scientific study in Germany; and on returning to this country, he was made Professor of Chemistry in the University of Mississippi, filling the position faithfully and ably. Close application to professional duties injured his eyes, and he was compelled to resign his position, and ultimately abandon the cherished hope and noble ambition of his life. His eyes never recovered from the injuries they received, and his desire to be useful to his fellow-men, and serve his Master as a Christian teacher of science—an interpreter and priest of Nature—expounding God's thoughts in his works, and showing men how to apply these thoughts to the uses for the welfare of society—this noble desire he had to surrender.

All this disappointment could not but be a sorrow to him—a sorrow shared by his family and friends. But when in spite of all these severe trials he could still trust the Heavenly Father who directed all that overruled them; when his life, in spite of his disappointment, remained that of a son, that life was no failure.

This grief falls with increased weight just now upon the bereaved father, for since the recent and unexpected death of his only living son was a special prop and comfort to his parents. But there is another circumstance which makes the sorrow for this death peculiarly pathetic. A short time before the accident which caused his death, Mr. Adger was elected elder of the church at Pendleton, S. C., of which his father is pastor, and on the Sabbath subsequent to the accident he was to have been ordained; but as Mr. Adger wrote to his father, "The ordination will have to be postponed."

Yes! "postponed," for "God had ordained him unto eternal life," and called him to "the general assembly and church of the first born in heaven." It is a comforting thought to all the bereaved family, that the young "elder elect" is assigned to duty with the "four and twenty elders before the throne." He serves among the people of the "Ancient Synagogue," where he himself (as we understand) was born thirty-one years ago, when his father was missionary there. He can compare experiences with those Synagogue Christians, for like them he was "circumcised," like them he was "not under the law," like them he was "not made king and priest unto God." His "faithful unto death, he hath a crown of life." He is assigned a position in the Upper World, his work, his life, his rule, are in heaven. —J. W. Ellis, in South-western Presbyterian.

Associate Grange No. 1, of Anderson County, met with Anderson Grange No. 71, at the Fair Grounds, on January 10th, representatives from all the subordinate Granges composing the union being present. Interesting essays were read by Bros. A. B. Bowler and R. M. Burns, the former on the best method of feeding work animals, including the kind and character of food, and the latter on sheep husbandry. Both essays elicited animated and instructive discussions, participated in by nearly all the delegates present.

The Associate Grange will meet with Deep Creek Grange on the 31st Saturday in March at 10 o'clock a. m., and the following programme has been arranged by the Executive Committee: Subject for general discussion, Cotton Culture.

Essays on general subjects—D. P. Bowen, L. W. Gentry, W. B. Watson, A. B. Bowler. Essays on special subjects—J. A. Drake, Milton Culture, R. M. Burns, Sheep Husbandry, John W. Daniels, Education of Farmers' Sons.

Delegates from Deep Creek—Wm. Davis, J. L. Fowler and W. T. McGill. From Anderson—Wm. McGulkin, J. E. Brazelton and W. M. Tucker. From Deep Creek—P. H. Brown, P. F. King, Hunter's Spring—J. W. Brown, R. M. Burris, A. G. Fretwell. Sandy Spring—W. W. Russell, R. M. Morris, M. O. Smith.

These meetings are uniformly pleasant and instructive, and the essays are urged to attend promptly with a desire to please and encourage children can develop. Those children will never forget that music, will never forget that pound party at Leeland Academy, and will never forget the happy moments of that evening. We hailed and welcomed it as a favorable omen of the future success of the school. We participated in it as a demonstration of confidence and appreciation of the teacher, as well as to encourage the children and to give variety to their monotonous school days. At 10 o'clock we adjourned by order of the committee.
